

THE ANTHOLOGY
of Demented Poetry

Featuring the works of high school students, bored to tears in class

TRANSCRIBED BY CHRIS LYLES

PREFACE

By Chris Lyles

Demented poetry is an art hard to explain. Some may not think of it as art, but the authors of this unique style of poetry certainly think so. From the outside, it may look like some of the authors just made up words and wrote them down. This is because that is exactly what happened.

In all seriousness, demented poetry was more a form of release and venting rather than art, although there can be an art to it. You see, this poetry was birthed out of frustration over metaphysical poems, which, at times, can seem just as poetic as what is written in these books. So students like myself at the time would channel aggression through writing “poems” that made absolutely no sense. Thus, demented poetry came to be.

Many have found these short works amusing, even hilarious. I highly recommend reading them when you feel down or lonely. Sometimes people have read these poems and were inspired to write their own dementia. Maybe you too will become a demented poet.

You may begin to sense a trend or theme if you pay close enough attention to some authors. Often shapes or inanimate (even invisible) objects will take on personification. Common figurative phrases are taken literally for humor effect, and sometimes poems may actually make sense!

Whatever your reason for downloading this book, I thank you and wish you the most demented experience!

Chris Lyles

DISCLAIMER

These poems do not reflect the opinions of anyone, not even of the author(s). They are made up of random phrases or words, and are not intended to show any political, ethnic, religious or gender ideologies of any kind. Again, this is just plain fun and is not meant to express any thought of any kind. It's demented poetry for crying out loud!

ILL REPUTED REFLEX

By Chris Lyles

Chromatids, chromosomes, ganglion and

Horseradish

Are the composition

Of mustard stew. For this Reason, and this reason alone,

Was at the thrift store buying

Money again.

Take out your glass eye

Is a fake eye made of glass

Eye is a fake eye made of Cement jelly.

Woe unto Malcolm and his

Tuna fish raiding party,

For they did what

Was barely enough to get by in

Postgraduate hygiene.

Mellow Yellow,

Although now I'm not so

Sure.

ALL FOR LUB

Based on a lost work

By Chris Lyles

There is a place not far from here

Where I go to find rest

And solace.

It is a dark place, my refuge

At times, that

Provides relief to my distress.

I journey there.

Sniff.

Groans and strains and

A grunt, and...

BLOUGH!!

The pressure is gone, but alas,

It was only a

“MEEP.”

JURY DUTY

By Chris Lyles

Quick.

Sleek.

Stealth movement

Sweeps the tombs

Engraved by

The one.

This one

Is

Two, but not too, yet won or one.

Splash,

I hear the sound movement

Of someone

Or something.

He has jumped

Overboard for

Fear of inflation of

The U.S. dollar. This all

Happened

Tomorrow.

Why

Oh why? The pain

Engrossed

Neoclassicism.

Now metabolism.

Gargantuan.

NERDS LIVING IN THE CORE OF THE SUN

Based on the lost work, Pink [Pank]

By Chris Lyles

The wall,
 Sparkling with its digital effervescence,
Shelters a pigeon-like face
That resembles a monetary statue
Of Mesotapoles.

 It is pink [pank].
Laments crying wildly into the wind
Are three-fourths
Barbecued,
As does a hummingbird.
Flask the wask
And
Chub the bub.
Niagara Falls
And sometimes it doesn't,
For in it lies the enmity of
The chiropractor
In shambles.

It
 Is Pink
 [pank].

PERISTALSIS

By Chris Lyles

Void is the scarf that expires
After Labor Day.
Naked elephants wear no earmuffs
As they skulk the bullion.
Fried potatoes.
Enchilada on my front porch
Scorches the funky eel.
Minus seventy-two degrees indicated
Multiplicity on the table.
Who but Santa Monica could kill
The mocha?
Certainly
The sideways stool sample
Hits the lizard on the highway.
Alas,
Milk drips from Velcro.
Michelle Kwan
Is jealous of
My girlfriend.
Firestone tires.
Amen.

RATIONAL FUNCTIONS

By Chris Lyles

Clear yet

Not clear

Yet clear, but not.

Waiting

 Waiting

For some obscure

Individual to release some

Garb upon

Its force

Cosined by the miniscule

Root and a toilet.

Apple trees

Don't grow sideways as a

Bungle does.

Maybe french fries taste

Better with milk?

Yet it is still there

Asking what it did. Why?

Ask your mom.

JUSTICE

By Chris Lyles

I ran,

But I fell.

And it hurt.

HE-MAN IS OUR DAUGHTER

By Chris Lyles

Sharpen your pen

Before I blast the walrus

Over the hill and ev-er-y where.

Shrapnel is coming

Over the hill and ev-er-y where.

Everywhere is ev-er-y where.

What? He did...? Oh.

Smack is laid down

Upon the midnight

Crunch-bars are waiting for you,

Dancing on the

Is marking.

Tool belt.

PROBABILITY

By Chris Lyles

Fusion in the calendar

Sparks daylight

In the fun-house as

Psychoanalytic plants

Frisky my

Dog biscuit.

Pear-tree pear-tree pear-tree

And I weep aloud at

The smell of turkey.

The mall

Is

Big.

COVECULAR

By Chris Lyles

It was then
That I discovered the
Root was actually tangent to my
Pink jelly. Coping with the extra butterfly
In my happy meal
It makes indigestion rampid.
Yea, alas, forsooth
Wrapping corn-dogs was never in this
Fatal contract
Minus two-thirds and a peach.
Why, O dog, are they
Aspiring to Madonna?
It must mean
Spaghetti-o's.

CONIC FUNCTIONS AND SUCH

By Chris Lyles

Yes, that's what I thought too,

But then I realized it just wasn't like

That.

Separation only occurs at me on the zoo

Ride fell past the Q on Turtle Power Shower.

Hit the gate and let it fly as the Deer. Matchly. If you can

Pronounce that, call me.

Indigestion.

I got extra credit just for the type

Of drink it was.

THE BOOK

By Chris Lyles

Smile
With tongue dangling
Images of paper and clothes
It doth fill my toilet
With mustard
Yes, forsooth
My gander gaze rests upon
The colors of
The BOOK.
The book
 The book
The book
 The book
The book
 The book
The book
 The book
And
The book
Pickles and cherries
Tame the donuts
And what of my band-aids?
The snarling chaos of my Coconut
Is pulling the lion's chin.

SCRIBBLEFRUS

Dedicated to Cheri Kimes's drawing in Spanish II, May 11, 2000

By Chris Lyles

Shh shh shh shh
I hear the sound
Shh shh shh shh shh
The sight appalls my aching
Spectacle viewers
As a crown upon
A cow's ear
Causes sweet
FRUS
Scribble shh shh shh
I see the
"Sun"
Exploding as rays
Vehemently slice the Fish-drenched
"Ocean"
Slake, slake, slake
I do so refresh my oven
With pipe-cleaners and a tree
Is a root in the blades that adorn
My footpath.
Why, O grass, art thou so
Green and scribbly, as the bird
Doth poop upon the mustard cloud.
A dog doth sniff
His own
As he beholds a
Violent, snuff frus
Tree.
Scribblefrus.

HEAT RESISTANT

By Chris Lyles

The pink [pank] speck on the wall
Inspires this pencil to inscribe wisdom on a stick,
But somehow explodes as a dry-erase marker
Upon my hip.
Hip, lip, dip, chip, slip, blip, clip, sip, whip, flip.
And a chocolate bee sings of honey
On my dresser drawer.
The triangle just happens to be my aunt
In a masked charade ball.
This only makes sense to be that way,
Or all is for naught...
Whatever that is.

MANIFESTO OF TREES

By Chris Lyles

Waxing prematurely as a steak bar,
The flivorous turtle rebounds
And...

SCORE!!

The magnificent beings that relish
Turmoil kill esophaguses
Worldwide. But don't despair,
The fly magnum is not
In effect anymore.
Flies flies flies
They always say
But it never worked to begin with,
So how do you expect it to
Cultivate radishes now?
The problem with rain sticks is
That
Saw it the other day explaining rational
Roots to a kid wearing no
Underpants.
It reely made me
He gawked at magnificence in the Making plus 3 1/2 over pi.
But when it was all over
He just hit them all
And out came a turtle
Dove that set out to Conquer all mosquitoes
And roast marshmallows.

A BLOB-LA

By Chris Lyles

Trinkets that whizzle in the night

Speak sweet Charlemagnes to my stomach

As the lizards take a break from broadcasting live in San Francisco.

Digitous laments flow like steel

From an unwanted chest of multipurpose cleaner,

And I weep.

Who is this Doctor whom we call Pepper?

He hath not reaped the stitches he hath sewn.

I shall barthaggle.

The breath of limeade chocolate

Utters moo-moo cow's legitimacy to my crowned elbow.

And then it came...

MEDIOCRE

By Chris Lyles

What do you mean, calling me
A ham-kid? For do you not know that I
Can? I will!

He closes the hot stove.

Pass me the gas, please.
And push the corn to
My dad is cool.
Tears are mercilessly jerked
From my elbow.
Hankering
For a hot-dog, he spilled hot lava in
His lap plus 3.
Take it outside
Where it.

Blue sweater.

BONNIE B

By Chris Lyles

It happens every time I flush my
Washing machine down the Street, why I don't find in the yard.
But still it encompasses my whole belt.
Shining, falling, and stinking, it
Mellows past the Gatorade machine
To Disney World on the side order that Wreaks bologna.
Smile! You're on
Candid marker ball!
Rush me a swimsuit so
I can take a bath in oil.
Conglomerate.

XENON

By Chris Lyles

Unto my beckoning ears
Was bestowed a garment as
To embellish
Propriety.
Wondering as I calculate the geometric
Distance between Nairobi and the Goon-Blast deserts of Planet Z-10217,
The green plants emerge
Restlessly as they had slept, yet
Engaging in a regional pastime
Of marshmallow burning
To the fourth degree polynomial
Function.
Silence. Wondering. Lipstick?
Nah.

EXTRATERRESTRIAL LAMPPOSTS

By Chris Lyles

Alas we are not alone.

Statistics report a mirror's reflection of

My uncle's first cousin's nephew's brother-in-law

Who has a second cousin (once-removed) and his

SARCONIC BLUES

By Chris Lyles

Mustering lonely in the sea
Is a diamond following
A crash course in terminology
But it never did.
Crevices that fill up
Are not empty
But pi times the square root
Of negative theta doesn't exist
As a proper fraction over its own
Nose.
But once the dry-erase
Bundle stalks its food,
I cry very very loud
As a cup of pennies hits its Own mother-in-law.
Why, O Bartholomew,
Is the sea purple?
It isn't, you dork.

As I look into the mirror,
I see an ugly face.
I need to clean it up right now;
The razor blade I raise.

The water runs into the sink;
The shaving cream I get.
I splash the water on my face –
It gets my skin all wet.

The shaving cream goes on my face;
The razor blade I raise.
I try to shave my hairy face
But some hair wants to stay.

I shave my face again, again
And try to make it smooth.
My razor blade hit a pimple
And it began to ooze.

PRELUDE OF AGASTRUS (FROM OPUS 7394217.95)

By Chris Lyles

<<music fills the auditorium as the polka band warms up>>

(tap, tap)

<a-hem>

Reeeeeee

Ahhhh

La da dee

Doooooh

Rum...

Silence

Is my name what it called

My half-oblinded scar tissue to eat

The bread on th corner.

Laughing hysterically

At the TV because no picture

Is on.

Red-n-butter, pled-n-schmucker,

Mef-in-tucker plus refro-lunger.

All of this

Is

Smoke.

<<the music subsides as everyone melts>>

Go

By Chris Lyles

Farsighted elephant kissing ludicrous

Trees that spit out seashells

What a smelly diary when flaming

On TV celebrity.

Why did you leave me

Britney Spears?

I'll be here

Waiting for you until

Your sinus drainage clears

And we can talk

Without snorting on paper clothes.

Arrogance was present in the quarter next door,

So as to induce labor on the Front line, but it

Failed

Darn those soap operas.

FACE VALUE

By Chris Lyles

Camels in the distance ignite

As MJ dunks on some sprite

Fright right

Plight

What a sight at Food Rite

Globs of glue stick to you

Like Winney on Pooh.

That had a different flavor

Last time it were

Chewn.

Pagemaster.

ANDROIDS BARKING AT ME

By Chris Lyles

A song, a song

Ra-la-ring-chong

Fighting, fighting

While ice is igniting

Tastes kinda like lightning

Is frightening.

Ding, dong, the witch is dead

Because she's dead

Is she ahead

Of her deathbed

By the med?

Ked.

A diamond, yes, a diamond

Richer-sliffe-hyphen

Can make you feel like

Mountain range climbing.

And I mean the Whole

Thing.

BLOCKING A WALL

By Jonathan Fortenberry

The tenderness of the Defense of the pastries
Is a soft cool cream in the center
Portion of a tissue roll.
Creepy pens legislate a scale worthy of a penny.

Calendars, salamanders, lizards, gizzards
Days, craze, bugs and slugs.

Black inside a blue blue sky and
The parrot cannot see.
Beaks squawk at the sound of landscaping.
Fuzzy snow warms my feet,
A shoe sits pretty.

Spindle, Mendel, Grendel, Tindle
Cells, wells, hells, fails.

FINALLY, A POEM THAT RHYMES

By Jonathan Fortenberry

Like a woodpecker pecking wood,

A brick falls slowly,

I wish it could,

Flow freely forward forever

Ferrets turn carrots

Into karats.

Eat the worm! Go!

Circle and scream Frote.

TENNIS SHOES

By Jonathan Fortenberry

Start at the beginning

End where you start.

End at the beginning,

So you never really start, fart.

Slinky hands and wrists jiggle

Thrones and the offering

Is made.

Move! Whoa, that was close.

WHO STEPPED IN WHAT?

By Jonathan Fortenberry

Get out of my car!

Have you ever seen a marsupial

Wear an agenda?

The mesh net laughs.

Shoot an arrow, you missed the duck.

Principle Shipley falls down and

Calls you his mother!

Run through the weeds and stare

At the tree.

Slap. You ran into it.

Birds chuckle cook a burger.

SILVER SPOON

By Jonathan Fortenberry

The branches are falling and the British
Are asleep!
Brown shoes, black shoes, and the cow goes
Moo-moo.
Holographic systematic controversial blender,
Chickens running backward.
Take a trip on the good ole skrit.
Beating hearts, broken jars, college basketball.
Green leaves taste good.

POOBAH!

By Jonathan Fortenberry

The brave eraser leaps through the fire.
Smash a window plastic jacket.
He would have saved a woman in distress,
Except she's at the supermarket.

JUMP!

By Jonathan Fortenberry

Oh no, my weave is coming out.

I shoulda got a jerry curl.

Periodic forks, go set the table.

I wonder if I can use 75 E's.

Snake skin Tylenol, frog blender on

A piece of paper.

Quantacynstasticalism.

Hyperion shield and turn on the lights.

Watch out for that car!

Thank goodness it was parked, you

Coulda got run over.

Twist the triple tank.

LYING IN THE WASTEBASKET

By Jonathan Fortenberry

Stacks of magazines

Walk the sky.

Didn't I just see that car?

This is my 16th time to my mailbox.

Oh no, ink.

It's the fireman! What's he

Doing to Frosty?

Catfish on my plate.

Step in a puddle.

Hop a train, ha! Still

Too short. Moving

Too fast. This is what

A line looks like.

Why are kangaroos jumping

NARCOLEPTIC SCHOOL BUS DRIVERS

By Jonathan Fortenberry

Hurry hurry we're almost late.

2, 4, 6 ... umm... 8.

I hate being rushed so hard,

But my uncle is an English bard.

Ladies and gentlemen, please have a sit

As I drive recklessly towards the

Don't spill the beans.
I. So you know. I was like.
Walking down. The.
Street, and I. Have a.
Problem. With
Being interrupted. Don't
You think that. And it
Has no need, so I
Ram my head to the wall
And chase your brain
Like a true spy, yet even now
It eludes me so like
A villain. Glue.

ZEBRA CAKE FERMENTATION

By Jonathan Fortenberry

I wish the Prince Was Wrong so

I could win an easy bake

Oven.

Moon rocks hold discussions and BLUE!

Quit staring.

Mi casa, su casa, but

Get out of my kitchen.

I was in the black hole, then I

Ran through an open door, and hit the wall on the other side.

My superhero abilities sill

Confuse me. Why am I wearing

Scooby Doo undies?

Naptime.

GRANDMOTHER

By Jonathan Fortenberry

My apenductable Hey it's Lou Gerhig.

I got in my car and

Parked. When I got out I was Driving a ball down then range. I

Hit a moose in the ear, and

He turned and said "Ow" then

Fell over dead. I felt bad.

So I hit a note on my harmonica

And sang his family a song.

We snagged a burger.

Since my toenails hadn't spoke

To me in a while, I called hem.

The answering machine said they Went bowling and then blew

Up. So I called back.

A woman picked up and I ordered

A cake.

My elbow left to go pick up

Trash. Lousy bum.

FACE

By Jonathan Fortenberry

Crap, I got choklit on my hair and
I spilled a liberal on
The paper.
The absence of books
Cause muffins to rise
To power. All hail the mightee trash can.
Mad beats rock, and beat a full house.
Hahaha, your 4-of-a-kind is no

Hard to find Waldo.

PRETTY BLUE EYES

By Jonathan Fortenberry

My kidneys are shaking. They dance
And charm little fuzzy
Wuzzies to their eminent
Starvation. The can inverts
Aren't you that guy that stunt-doubled
For that guy that played Robocop?
You need to get up off me before I bust
You in your dishwasher.
Then outta nowhere, Chris says
"The spiral jumps out of the window
And snakes"

And we all laugh.

JONATHAN'S CRITERIA FOR AN ACTION

By Jonathan Fortenberry

- 1) There must be only 1 her and at least 6 bad guys.
- 2) The hero must be able to do humanly impossible things
- 3) The hero must fall for a girl.
- 4) The girl must be kidnapped by the bad guys.
- 5) The bad guys must beat down the hero to the point of near death, only to see the hero rise and kill all the bad guys.

CLASS RING

By Jonathan Fortenberry

Why must the rainbows flow?

Watch out for that text!

I speak to Jawa but he's mute.

Out of the mountain spring, skittles pour.

Do not gaze at me.

My hand is glazing!

Desks walking on ceilings and

Hey is that a car?

No, it's only a snail.

Pull out the drawer and I

Was walking go pump

The gas. I mysteriously

Snicker loudly at the Belt loop you missed.

ALWAYS COKE-A-KOALA BEAR

By Jonathan Fortenberry

Surf the information highway.
You won't get anywhere with
The gravel in your face.
Circles and dots and opaque ovals
Are the friends driving my taxi.
Go climb in a file cabinet!
Do I know you? Of course I do, you're me.
But if I'm you, and you're me,
Then who are we? We are
You and me, but we could be
Us, but if we were us,
Hey! Who stole my snickers?
I missed the bus again.

CHOCKLIT MANIFESTO

By Jonathan Fortenberry

All chocklit is created equal,
Though oppressed and downtrodden
By the hands that urn for
Mookie doo like a
Child messing himself in favor
Of a man cleaning a window
On the outside from the inside of a car, steaming cold
Outside a day club in New York
Village in a night-darkened
Alley where I live and sleep
And raise carrots to feed to
The roaches in your

LOOK!

Haha...got ya.

TOO BAD

By Jonathan Fortenberry

The young car valiantly
Chases the speeding dog
With vigor unseen.
He almost catches him but
At the last moment a humming bird
Interferes and causes the dog
To get away like a puzzle.

ETHYL CARBOXONILE ENGAGEMENTS

By Jonathan Fortenberry

The yelling, screaming, weeping, crying, and
Gnashing of teeth is silent like a bullhorn
That has no batteries.

The double A batteries have been raptured
Into oblivion by the toy soldier who lost his Leg in the Great Microwave War III of '97.
Boo! He screams and says "Hand over your Chocolate!" And the batteries laugh.

Ha.

A SERIOUS POEM

By Jonathan Fortenberry

Drab and blah. The color is gone.
Dementedness is bliss.
White and plain. The absence hurts,
Much like needlepoint.
Ouch sayeth I when I lose it,
Yay yelleth I when I gain it,
So to end this poem of evil plainness
I shall leave you with this,

Hahahaha...I ain't lost it!
Whooooooooo-Hooooooooo.

RED INK

By Jonathan Fortenberry

Such is the apathy, like a rosinbrag,
Resembling a newborn
Fresh out of the oven come and get it,
Wait I'll bring it to you
Cries the baker with the cheese who jumps
Cautiously without care.

Cream cheese is good.

THE WRITING IS ON THE WALL

POCKETS OF PLASTER

By Jonathan Fortenberry

Azure found Asian? Only in the woods!

But they don't have woods in Asia!

Huh? I thought it was Europe!

No! Africa has a swimming pool!

I thought we were talking about Europe!

No we weren't, you've gone senile!

Give me my teeth! Say please!

Choke

QUESTIONS I WOULD ASK THE EASTER BUNNY IF I HELD HIM AT STICK-POINT

By Jonathan Fortenberry

If a person takes up drinking, then they shouldn't
Be thirsty. If they aren't thirsty then why would they Drink?

If a person starts smoking, then they're probably on fire,
So if they're on fire, they probably won't care about taking
A puff.

If milk were green like the grass a cow eats, what Color would the cheese be? Green? So if it's green cheese
Then why not call it money?

WHERE'S THE GOPHER?

By Jonathan Fortenberry

I woke up this morning
And stumbled into bed,
Shaved my stomach
And rubbed my head,
Ate my suit and
Put on my breakfast
Cranked the door
And walked out
The car.
Why am I rolling backwards.
No, please move.
Oops.
Injured dog.

THE GRAVY BOAT

By Jonathan Fortenberry

Chrikey! Clean-up on aisle 14

Of a 2 story box.

Boat smash car on the Water of space.

Run into the jell-o with

All your mouth and

Looooooooove it.

Splat a boo

Tee hoo, crack

A tophat.

HEAD LICE!

By Jonathan Fortenberry

N*Sync is breaking up!
It's the end of the world
As [all little 13-15 year old girls] know
It, and I feel fine.
If I am, then I am, but
Only the cheese fall down
Before me. I wish it wouldn't
For now it is dirty and I can't supply my hungry
Salami with hairy
Dairy products.
Monuments fall over when
I break wind,
For when I break it,
I smash it.
Flapjack socks.

MY HEART

What can be eaten, has ears, and can Communicate in Hebrew? A fly.
He's from Cambodia and

It wasn't going anywhere.
That's the problem with today's youth.
Undercooked spaghetti.

MURPHY'S LAW

By Jonathan Fortenberry

I stepped in front of a bus.

It didn't stop.

How rude.

The castle is down!

Or is it up?

The Spanish are coming!

The Spanish are coming!

They don't bring guns,

Only a lawsuit saying

We stole their chalupas.

Ooooh my, the bus

Again.

And again.

Why?

Blond hair is a wastebasket

Peach.

THE MIX

By Jonathan Fortenberry

Two monkeys violently sparring with cheese,
Being separated by their former selves
Cannot be sedated by your law of averages.

The 73 cubic inch box is plastic and
Rubber, but only cardboard is seen.
It's my box so it is small and liquefied.

The sky runs forward and trots sideways
To the pink filler-up gas pump
That resides outside McDonalds.

VIOLENT GESTURES

Please check my drawer

For your belongings.

No not there, there

Cheese is not personal

Or personable

Or in "Perceval"

Spear.

LIFE OF AN AMISH GANG MEMBER

By Jonathan Fortenberry

Hardcore thuggin like whoa

And a voice inside of me

Screams in time with the

Bassy beat of the system

“They’ll all laugh at you!”

SONNET FOR MY DEAREST LOVE

By Jonathan Fortenberry

Like a refrigerator
Your body has a box-like shape
You remind me of ice cubes
The freezer produces daily.

Like a football you look odd
And you are tough like a pigskin
Your smell is that of a shoe
Your sweet breath smells of a taco.

A sadness clenches my heart,
Whenever I see you coming,
Monopoly always is,
An idea equal to bird watching.

This love I confess resembles a coke machine in that
A flame could swallow you whole and I wouldn't care.

FEET

By Jonathan Fortenberry

Green mountain with golden
Triangles that make me circle
Around and around and backward
While going nowhere yet somewhere
There is a person who goes here
Black in color they are yet red
They might be all the while we Eat Doritos.

OH SO SHORT

By Jonathan Fortenberry

Oh so short shall this poem be.
So short it might be miniscule
Mini-scule, in such a way
That it is small and Horribly frail.
I wish for it to be
Short and that is why
It is short, because I
Among all the peoples
Of this great nation
Love short poetry.
It is so short
That it might
As well not be written at all.
But since it is written
And it is short, most Shall read this in Timely fashion while
Keeping in stride with the
One walking beside them
Who is reading over their Shoulder like a madman.
This is a short poem,

Oops.

PUFF

By Jonathan Fortenberry

Most assuredly I say unto thee
Heed the words of me
Most accurately I shoot up there
Heavenward towards wacky obstacles many

The clock.

LEAVE ME!

By Jonathan Fortenberry

My nose twitches untied by reigns

Such as Rudolph did

When he was captured by

Former Chicago

Cubs Ryne Sandberg.

Uncontrollably I blink and

I think

O, I think and I think.

Does this

Mean I have

A thinking problem?

Drinking, stinking, finking

A bar, a dump, a castle

All provide these

Things in which people do

But thinking is Everywhere

Like pies in the sky,

Above an

Alboinstein Board

HOW THE SHRIVER TUBMAN HAWKINS FOUNDATION PROJECT WAS FUNDED

By Jonathan Fortenberry

The cheese jumped over the fence,
The cow said big deal and tried the moon
He fell back down after halfway, hence
The big purple cast on the horse's leg.
Humpty Dumpty never fell down,
He's still there today eating the fruit
Of his labor, wait, no, that's nasty.
I didn't say what I think I did, did I?
Oh no, I did, or maybe you did.
So run along and go play with
Some FeCO_6H_2 , but don't eat
It, because it doesn't taste like
A minty manty choclike fanch.

ODE TO MY BUDDY

By Jonathan Fortenberry

You're a strange one, Mr. Chris.
You walk all alone on your very Own road where no one
Is allowed to drive faster than you.

You're an odd one, Super Finch
You fly towards the sun that is
Underground above the core
Of your very own palace in my yard.

You frighten me, smookerbolt
You're sometimes crazy sometimes
Nutty, other times insane
But you're still my buddy.

THE FENCE

By Jonathan Fortenberry

The brownness of your air turns
Left into oncoming traffic
That is starting to melt in
A frozen box of hot rocks
Wearing your socks inside
The belly of some ewoks
Like a stick,

Mooklandy Poo.

EXCERPT FROM MY THOUGHTS

By Jonathan Fortenberry

Voice 1: It's 10:14

Voice 2: Only on the clock

1: No, it's 10:14 everywhere.

2: No, only on the clock.

1: Shut up.

2: You shut up.

1: No, you shut up.

2: Fine, I know you are but what am i?

1: What?

2: Exactly!

1: Hey!

2: Huh?

3: Where?

4: No!

1, 2, 3: (in unison) Yes!

4: What?

1: I thought you knew.

3: Me too.

2: You too?

4: Yes him too!

AAAARRRRGGGGHHH!!!

The author of this poem will now commence to slobber and
Babble on about the evils of bubble gum.

WHAT??

By Jonathan Fortenberry

Though it makes no sense, someone can makes something out of it, and examine it and analyze it until the dement-edness is gone. Such as this here poem means not a thing but would be determined as the winner in the annual “World’s Most Meaningful Poetry” contest if such a contest existed.
But since it doth not I shall sit and enjoy my ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha ha

THE STAIRS

By Jonathan Fortenberry

Sermitly I stare at the blue sky
That envelops the stairs that go between
The 3rd and 7th floor of a 3 bedroom
2-bath single story house in suburban
Chicago.
Try this on for size the violent bully of
A man known as the dressing room clerk
Says as he hands me a blue sparkling dress
6 sizes too small. I say no and run to
Dairy Queen to enjoy an ice cream cone
Outside in the -30 degree weather.

USING YOUR DAUGHTER'S WEDDING AS AN EXCUSE TO BUY A SHOTGUN (IS NOT COOL)

What kind of freak possesses a pink muscle car pair of underwear?

It is I!

Who would save the chicken should he fall from his spookiet?

I it is!

Where can you buy gray crayons in wholesale bulk?

It is I!

Who I am?

THE GATHERING

By Michael Smith

Spherical turbulence cascades towards
Rising towers of homegrown rice crispies.
Giant Umpa-lumpas chase Toto through the
Emerald-covered city of brass eagles that soar
Through the crowded woods of the Congo drums.
Diabolical recurring nightmares inspire
The growth of cadaverous blooms in Accordance to the visage a Black Lotus.
The land tax only applies to Goblins that Run around like imps with the enchantment
Of a Thran Golen from the Fields of Abyssia.

I DON'T HAVE A CLUE?

By Michael Smith

Monotonous, habitual, recurring, once in a lifetime
Events take place on my front lawn.
The shiny red wagon runs 7's down the strip surrounded
By toddlers and their scrupulous siblings with four and
A half limbs and 13 and a half phalanges.
The placid visage of Joe Cartwright haunts my Waking nightmares as I cry myself awake because
Of the overabundance of flatulating ferrets
That take the place of a valedictorian forbidding mourning.
Cookies personify dormant frogs that sing snappy
Tunes about adventures in unsuspecting ears.
The great tales of animals like snakes can be Found in libraries under rocks at your local Supermarket. Extra! Extra! Read all
About it! Spontaneously combusting
Miniature poodles invade the White House
And entertain George Bush. What Shall we do? Call the zoo!
Moooooo!

PURPLEDOT TRIKINI

By Michael Smith

As I shed the skin of my present life
I think back to days of less strife
Days bygone and long behind
When thoughts of innocence crossed my mind
Those days, their winter has long passed
But, I knew they'd never last.
For although they brought much joy
Towards the future my mind did. I employ
Because in that we all must place our faith
And in dreams and wishes is it swathe
No one needs to be told
We know not what the future holds.

ARITHMETIK

By Michael Smith

Calculus bites me on my
Wobbly legs as I stroll through to acres
Of transcendental functions who stare me down
Like the ever wakeful antidifferential integrations.
The slope of a negative function asymptotically
Gives me migraines because of the gradient of
The secant to the tangent of the infection point
Of a plane conic function from a little town
Called Mayberry.
Rabid functions chase me through wakeful
Dreams of disease filled binomials and wrathful
Cubes that seem cubic but are actually quadratic.

NIKE SHOE

Unknown

There is a bug on my neck, which made my life a living heck! And then one day I had a wreck and ran into the pooppy speck. I have a pair of Nike shoes that always makes me blue. I regurgitate the apple salad spuds, I live with my hairy uncle Bud. He likes to drink mud. With the mud I used to make mustard strew. P-U! When I used to drink, it made me stank like blueberry biscuits I smelled. My favorite color is yellow. It makes me think of the mustard stew that makes the trees grow side-ways. My nausea causes sweet bitter stuff to flow up my fervent neck down to my feet it goes then up in the sky with the birds. The pickle juice is green and yellow. My chalupa is now broke, again. So take it to the repair shop. Well, they may charge for that red Nike shoe.

By Luke Stubblefield

I was running through chocolate and a giant ape asked: "It does it with me too." I said "Maybe," and ran to the guard and put some on then came to a stop, because a train was flying, scream the innocent of a vecular rhyme, because the chocolate was so deep I jumped on the hot dog winter pumpkin sled and rode to the castle of Chris' house where he went "Heh" and I said "Reeeeh." And then we went to murder little gazelles.

THIS -N- THAT

By Alex Fletcher

I have an invisible friend named Larry, who has a brother named Jerry, who has a friend that uncle's name is Barry. Therefore naming his son Harry, his fish Werry, and his daughter Goonthrop. Hence he named the tiger Lion and lion Tigger. I don't like apples, or peaches, I'm not fond of pears, but I do like bananas. Oh yes, Larry has a sister named Perry who has a daughter named Lenny. Their dog is named, Gillthrop. This and that all from my friend Larry. Whose friend uncle is Barry, brother is Jerry, and sister Perry. All this from our dear friend. Larry.

FUN BUBBLE GUM

By April Rowland

I borrow a piece of bubble gum, chew it in my mouth - yum, yum yum! Press it between my lips and blow, and then... POP! ALL over my face and hair, even in my underwear. My mom will be upset to see what a mess I've made on me. But she doesn't know that this is fun! Fun bubble gum - yum, yum, yum!

I borrow a piece of bubble gum, chew it in my mouth - yum, yum, yum! Press it between my lips and blow, and then... pop! All over the front of my clothes. I guess it's another bath in the water hose. But it is way too much fun to chew bubble gum! Fun bubble gum - yum, yum, yum!

I borrow a piece of bubble gum, chew it in my mouth - yum, yum yum! To my dog I give a piece and another to my daddy's niece. We sit and blow big bubbles way up high; Bubbles that reach up into the sky, and then... pop! The grass is pink with bubble gum. And so are we, sitting beneath a big pink sun. I think maybe we had too much fun, because now we have to clean up all that bubble gum. Oh, well! It was fun! Fun bubble gum - yum, yum, yum!

BLOBBY PRETENSE

By Adrienne Trevathan

I saw a suspicious clown when walking in the valley, thought I saw him scurry down the darkest part of the alley. Back streets of Seattle and you stop to wonder why the skyscrapers mock the night's calling sky. Lose yourself to the trip of the Allman Brothers Band, try to figure out but you'll never understand why the rhetorical questions drown on without end or the way light catches objects and sometimes seem to bend. Walking down an alley on a cool summer day, pay some bucks to a side-street musician who seems to know the way more so than the rest of us as we try to allude our doubt. I'd like to say it's not for me to figure out. I saw a frantic baker as he was running from a store, got tired of his same old bread, so he robbed the baker next door. Wouldn't you assume that he would've had more sense but you really can't say, because it's all a whirling abyss of blobby pretense. Always a justification for the ways of the human mind why you gotta be actin anotha race, tryin to busta rhyme; it's all good though, no matter what it's all one way or anotha' spreadin that love 'round cuz it's like a ball of butta. The ironic twists and amusement I can find in a yo-yo to me is more worthwhile than a search for my non-existent mojo. For now I'll forget to ponder the deeper increments of life and watch the light waver from the tip of my S'Klallam scalping knife.

SPARKLING THINGIES THAT SPARKLE

By Chris Lyles and Don Halleron

Envelopes of chance call me every afternoon to remind me of a hotdog tennis match that I had scheduled with Rose Dawson for three o'clock. The Beatles beat the broadside of the Monkeys while they were trying to stage dive into the pool, but three people in here are wearing yellow shirts to impress their own respective tribal bee leaders. Which does do did done died den doo-doo, and for everyone else, there's Pepcid AC. Silly Rabbit, Trix are for sickle-cell monotone regurgitated lysosomes that can't spell. But hey, don't they thing that spell is plels. Yup. Chimera meets the rabid duck floating in a sea of slime atop a chocolate bunny.

THE KITE'S DIET

By Chris Lyles and Don Halleron

Chow against the blanket's viciously aggravated dipolymonucleic grasses fox-trot and poltergeist crimes harmoniously conjugate Gemini chocolates alone. Why hardly can breathe in breathe for ravishing ugly discriminates fly away In on the unidentified falling astronomical wayward glistening of fronthing. Lemmings try Smarties for dummies.

MY HAIR MOVED

By Chris Lyles and Michael Smith

Did you see it? No but I saw its derivative! It was naked eating a towel!! No it was eaten by a naked towel!! Oh yeah. But didn't it? Oh no, I know you didn't just not go there!!! Flanking the corn, a man hollered "Crow!" Diving low, the crow swallowed a man/woman/it!!!! But when, where, why and can was the part of mine. Hey don't leave out How and Do, they're uncles!!!! Snarkef. Hmzipvu!

THE PARTY

By Kim Pannell and Amanda Embry

Splish splash in the dish, is that you messin' with my fish? Goodness gravy, great bowls of fish sticks. And what to my wondering eyes should appear, a naked man with no sun tan. And in his hand he held a 7-pack of beer. Is my shirt wet or is it just my sweat? And I look down to my toes of guacamole but I can't help it because my shoes are old and holey. And up comes the ant to gubble my chin. Gobblygock falls from the skies, ouch. I think it hit me in my eye!

MY PET WORM: HARRY!

By Kim Pannell

I have a pet worm, whose name is Harry. I think one day we might get married. He is the only friend I have ever had, he never makes me mad or sad. He was the cutest thing I ever saw. Hey! One day I might introduce him to ya'll. I really am in love with Harry, but I'm starting to like my caterpillar Larry.

ORANGUTAN

By Lindsay M. Flegal and Michael Smith

Sunday morning pre-recorded is a good way to preach at a church filled with broccoli and spinach with a dash of plaster of paris. Don't go to the place that you used to be when you know you'll be there the week before the day after the year precious to the decade following the turning of the millennium after 3 minutes before 12:00 a.m. Of the last day of the century. Oh yeah! Pencil head!

BOOGERS

By Lindsay M. Flegal and Michael Smith

The red apples fall from the sky as kamikaze buzzard dive bomb concrete deer.
Coke testes like chicken when it's baked with overcooked ear wax. Don't hesitate to stock your fingers in an orange faced lightning bolt. Bathtubs are sometimes crazy when subjected to intense amounts of cold water. Proceed with intensity when entering an art gallery. Supercalifragilisticexpiallodocious!

MELLOW

By Michael Smith, Lindsay Flegal, Kyle Miller and Justin D.

Snot skis up the slope of macaroni. Hippopotamus body odor is yummy. My mom is her own cousin. The downward upheaval of chocolate covered poppy seeds with imitation goat cheese together on a watermelon bun. Antidisestablishmentarianism!!

RIDING A WAVE: AN OPOSSUM'S ROAD TO FAME!

By Michael Smith and Don Halleron

Emergency lights flicker at the sound of hybrid photosynthesizing omnivorous caterpillars scenting a rabid rose petal as it falls upward towards the downwards spirals of the upgrowth. A lunch lady fed me a spoonful of beans. "Flatulence is not a valid excuse for tardiness," says the one-legged, toothless substitute. Go, go Gadget Purple Monkey Power! Goat milk is very superfluous. I got a snake man! Man I got a snake pet, er... man got pet snake a, uh... anyway one time I fed it some beer man, well, one time at Demented Poetry Camp... uhhhh I uhhhhh, you know uhhh ask the ADHD monkey he's at fault. I'm innocent! If the glove don't fit, you must E Pluribus Gum 'em! And doG sselb aciremA!
